MISSION STATEMENT

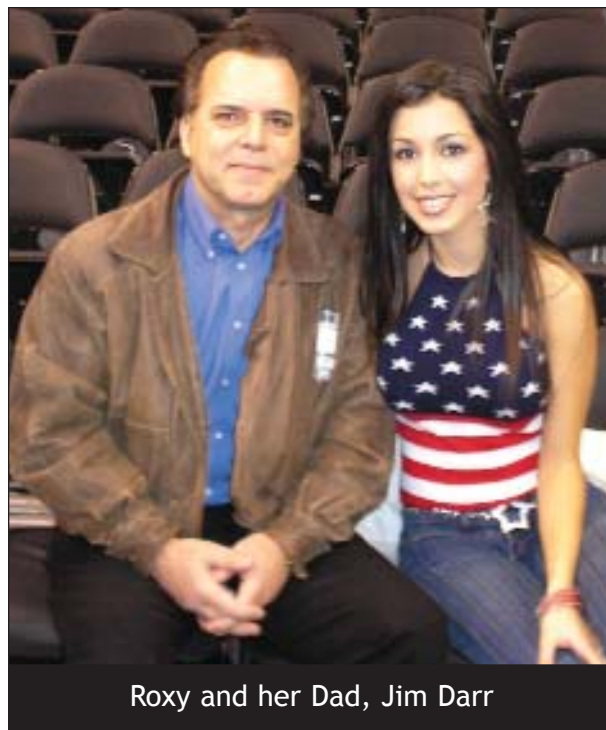

It is our hope that this new publication will be a breath of fresh air to those interested in entertainment related subjects. We are striving for a "Fun for all ages" type of format. In other words, a popular paper with no adult section, and without political overtones. We welcome your comments and suggestions, and hope to Entertain You. Thank You -- W. B. Weaver, Publisher

Roxy Darr Sings at Staples Center And Makes A Red Carpet Debut!

BY BOB VICKERS

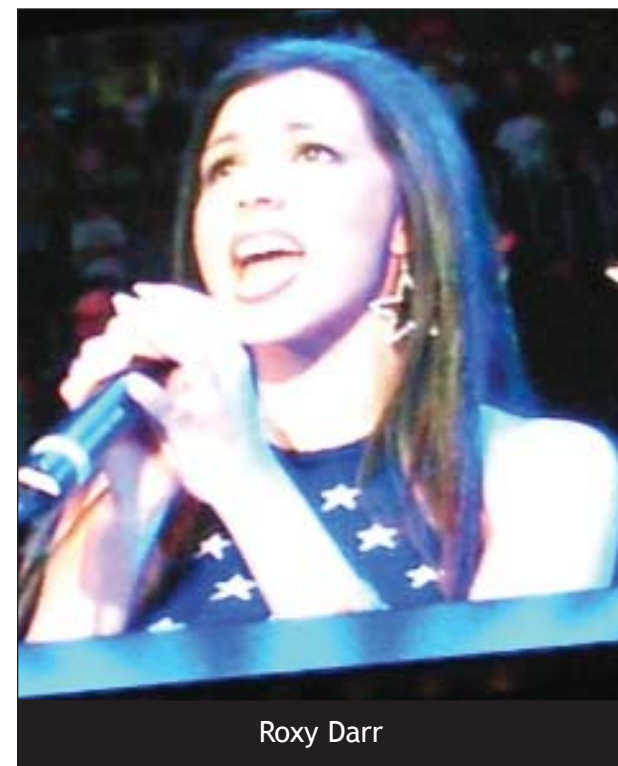

Returning for the second season running, our own Roxy Darr sings at Staples for the National Basketball Association (NBA). The 18,000 seat stadium was packed and ready to hear the sounds of Miss Darr on November 27th along with the Los Angeles Clippers and the Indiana Pacers. With the music roaring, fans packing, and the players warming up, game time got closer. With great pride, Roxy stood up and pranced on over to the center of the court. As the players from each team lined up in front and in back of Miss Darr, the lights dimmed and the spot light shined, Roxy took a deep breath and sang her heart out for her country with the singing of the National Anthem. The audience roared and cheered before she could finish due to the most challenging note of "free" which she held on to brilliantly. As she finished with a great big smile, and walked off the court to wish the players and their coach good luck, fans continued cheering and congratulated Roxy on her compelling performance. Shortly before she could take her seat, fans flocked to receive their autographs and pictures with Roxy which she graciously accepted, "I love it when fans want to take pictures, but I especially treasure the experience when they send me the picture at my fan club, it's always very special." The experience was a success and Roxy looks forward to a strong second season. Performance can be viewed on www.roxydarr.com in the Multimedia section. Also check out the website for future performances at the Staples Center.

With her continual support for sports and the arts, Roxy also appeared on the Red Carpet at the Key Club on Sunset, to celebrate L.A. Clippers, Corey Maggette's 26th Birthday and the "Corey Cares with Bears" fund-raise for the L.A. Children's Memorial Hospital. This night was a success with celebrities showing support for the team and its good cause. Teddy bears in all colors and sizes were brought onto the Red Carpet by Roxy Darr and others like Amanda Lewis, Regina King, Blu Cantrell, Coolio, Tia Mowry, Kareem Abdul Jafar, Jr., Sugar Shane Mosely, and players from the team like Sam Cassell and of course, Corey Maggette.

As a proud performer of the Staples Center, Roxy showed pride for this event in style! She was also interviewed in front of many television cameras and shot by photographers from all over town. When asked about the essence of the night and the event as a whole, Roxy replied, "The greatest part of the entire event is the fact that there is sure to be a whole lot of smiles when these bears get delivered to their future owners." Roxy is a firm believer in contributing her talents to a good cause, especially those in which she can relate. "I think it's important as an artist to express oneself...as actors we are just grown-up children portraying everyday life situations with simplicity and fearlessness, therefore to connect with a child, even if it's with a bear, is a sure way to giving back to the spirit of a child."
